G7 to ban Russian gold in response to Ukraine war

REUTERS

Schloss Elmau, Germany, June 26

MEMBERS OF THE Group of Seven wealthy nations on Sunday announced a ban on imports of Russian gold as the G7 summit in the Bavarian Alps begins under the shadow of the war in Ukraine and consequences ranging from energy shortages to a food crisis.

The move by Britain, the United States, Japan and Canada is part of efforts to tighten the sanctions squeeze on Moscow and cut off its means of financing the invasion of Ukraine more than four months into a conflict. Russian president Vladimir Putin calls a special military operation.

"The measures we have announced today will directly hit Russian oligarchs and strike at the heart of Putin's war machine," British prime minister Boris Johnson said in a statement. "We need to starve the Putin regime of its funding. The UK and our allies are doing just that."

A senior US administration representative said the G7 would make an official announcement on the gold import ban on Tuesday.

"This is a key export, a key source of revenue for Russia in terms of their ability to transact with the global financial system," the US official said.

Russian gold exports were worth 12.6 billion pounds ($15.45 billion) last year and wealthy Russians have been buying bullion to reduce the financial impact of Western sanctions, the British government said. As well as the gold import ban, G7 leaders were also having "really constructive" talks on a possible price cap on Russian oil imports, a German government source said.

The three-day summit takes place against an even darker backdrop than last year, when British, Canadian, French, German, Italian, Japanese and US leaders met for the first time since the start of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Soaring global energy and food prices are hitting economic growth in the wake of the conflict in Ukraine, with the United Nations warning of an "unprecedented global hunger crisis."

Climate change, an increasingly assertive China and the rise of authoritarianism are also set to be on the agenda.

G7 leaders are expected to show a united front on supporting Ukraine for as long as necessary and cranking up pressure on the Kremlin, though they will want to avoid sanctions that could stoke inflation and exacerbate the cost-of-living crisis affecting their own people.

"The main message from the G7 will be unity and coordination of action," an EU official said. The G7 leaders are also expected to discuss options for tackling rising energy prices and replacing Russian oil and gas imports.

Russian missiles rock central Kyiv as leaders of G7 meet

REUTERS

Kyiv, June 26

RUSSIAN MISSILES HIT an apartment block and kindergarten in the Ukrainian capital Kyiv on Sunday, in strikes US president Joe Biden condemned as "barbarism" as world leaders gathered in Europe to discuss further sanctions against Moscow.

Up to four explosions shook central Kyiv in the early hours, in the first such attack on the city in weeks. Two more blasts were heard on the southern outskirts of the city later in the day, a Reuters reporter said.

"The Russians hit Kyiv again. Missiles damaged an apartment building and a kindergarten," said Andriy Yermak, head of the president's administration.

A Reuters photographer saw a large blast crater by a playground in a private kindergarten that had smashed windows. Ukraine's police chief, Ihor Klymenko, said on national television that five people had been wounded, and police later said one person was killed.

"It's more of their barbarism," said Biden, referring to the missile strikes, as leaders from the G7 rich democracies gathered for a summit in Germany.

British prime minister Boris Johnson said the West needed to maintain a united front against Russian president Vladimir Putin. "The price of backing down, the price of allowing Putin to succeed, to hack off huge parts of Ukraine, to continue with his programme of conquest, that price will be far, far higher," he told reporters.

Strategic city falls

Life had been returning to normal in Kyiv after fierce resistance held off Russian advances in the early phase of the war, although air raid sirens regularly sound across the city.

There had been no major strikes on Kyiv since early June.

The city's mayor, Vitali Klitschko, said on the Telegram messaging app that Sunday's strike had partially destroyed a nine-storey apartment building in the historic Shevchenkivskiy district of central Kyiv.

"There are people under the rubble," Klitschko said. "They have pulled out a seven-year-old girl. She is alive. Now they're trying to rescue her mother."

A Ukrainian air force spokesperson said the strike was carried out with between four to six long-range missiles fired from Russian bombers more than 1,000 kilometres away in the southern Russian region of Astrakhan.

Russia slides towards default

RUSSIA EDGED CLOSER to default on Sunday amid little sign that investors holding its international bonds had received payment, heralding what would be the nation's first default in decades.

Russia has struggled to keep up payments on $40 billion of outstanding bonds since its invasion of Ukraine on February 24, which provoked sweeping sanctions that have effectively cut the country out of the global financial system and rendered its assets untouchable to many investors.

The Kremlin has repeatedly said there are no grounds for Russia to default but is unable to send money to bondholders because of sanctions, accusing the West of trying to drive it into an artificial default.

The country's efforts to swerve what would be its first major default on international bonds since the Bolshevik revolution more than a century ago hit an insurmountable roadblock when the US Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control effectively blocked Moscow from making payments in late May.

Lanka struggling to secure fuel supplies

REUTERS

Colombo, June 26

SRI LANKA IS struggling to secure fresh fuel supplies, a top government minister said on Sunday, as the crisis-hit country of 22 million people is down to just 15,000 tons of petrol and diesel to keep essential services running in the coming days.

"We are struggling to find suppliers. They are reluctant to accept letters of credit from our banks. There are over $700 million in overdue payments so now suppliers want advance payments," power and energy minister Kanachana Wijesekera told reporters.

In the past two months Sri Lanka largely received fuel via a $500 million Indian credit line, which ran out in mid-June. A petrol shipment due last Thursday failed to arrive and no fresh shipments are yet scheduled, Wijesekera said. "We have about 9,000 metric tons of diesel and 6,000 metric tons of petrol left. We are doing everything we can to get new stocks but we don't know when that will be."

However, Sri Lanka also implemented a 12%-22% fuel price increase in the early hours of Sunday. A price hike in May pushed inflation to 45.3%, the highest since 2015.

People, already waiting in kilometers long, snaking queues outside pumps, are unlikely to get fuel as the government will focus on issuing the remaining stocks for public transport, power generation and medical services, Wijesekera said.

The military, which has already been deployed at fuel stations to quell unrest, will now issue tokens to those waiting, sometimes for days, he said, adding that ports and airports will be given fuel rations. Separately, the government on Sunday asked about one million public employees to work from home until further notice.

Inflation: BIS urges decisive wave of global rate hikes

REUTERS

London, June 26

THE WORLD'S CENTRAL bank umbrella body, the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), has called for interest rates to be raised "quickly and decisively" to prevent the surge in inflation turning into something even more problematic.

The Swiss-based BIS has held its annual meeting in recent days, where top central bankers met to discuss their current difficulties and one of the most turbulent starts to a year ever for global financial markets.

Surging energy and food prices mean inflation in many places is now its hottest in decades. But the usual remedy of ramping up interest rates is raising the spectre of recession, and even of the dreaded 1970s-style "stagflation", where rising prices are coupled with low or negative economic growth.

"The key for central banks is to act quickly and decisively before inflation becomes entrenched," Agustín Carstens, BIS general manager, said as part of the body's post-meeting annual report Annual Economic Report published on Sunday.

Carstens, former head of Mexico's central bank, said the emphasis was to act in "quarters to come". The BIS thinks an economic soft landing — where rates rise without triggering recessions — is still possible, but accepts it is a difficult situation.

"A lot of it will depend on precisely how permanent these (inflationary) shocks are," Carstens said, adding that the response of financial markets would also be crucial. "If this tightening generates massive losses, generates massive asset corrections, and that contaminates consumption, investment and employment — of course, that is a more difficult scenario."
